Senators Who Devoted Months to Money Lawmaking Learned Lot About Subject - Underwood Asserts That Bill Will Be Passed on Schedule Time. Sutherland Objects to Night Sessions.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, Dec. 18.-[Special.]-There is every indication that there will be considerable legislation of importance relating to postal affairs this session. Postmaster General Burleson and his assistants have recommended many measures that have heretofore received support in congress and are of a practical kind which will help the service.

Already a number of bills have passed for improving the postal savings bank system and otherwise facilitating postal business, and it is expected that the bigger questions, such as amending the parcel post law and furthering postal telegraph service will come along later in the session.

It was during the consideration of one of these minor bills that Minority Leader Mann took occasion to criticise severely the former administration's attitude in trying to abolish the franking privilege and to say that he was hold of the department business in a seconds. practical manner.

Senators Who Devoted Months to Money Lawmaking Learned Lot About Subject - Underwood Asserts That Bill Will Be Passed on Schedule Time. Sutherland Objects to Night Sessions.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, Dec. 18 .- [Special.]-There is every indication that there will be considerable legislation of importance relating to postal affairs this session. Postmaster General Burleson and his assistants have recommended many measures that have heretofore received support in congress and are of a practical kind which will help the

Already a number of bills have passed for improving the postal savings bank system and otherwise facilitating postal business, and it is expected that the bigger questions, such as amending the parcel post law and furthering postal telegraph service will come along later in the session.

It was during the consideration of one of these minor bills that Minority Leader Mann took occasion to criticise severely the former administration's attitude in trying to abolish the franking privilege and to say that he was glad this administration was taking former remaining in the air just 59 hold of the department business in a practical manner.

I could not afford to certainly learned a lot about the subject, or at least they put a lot into the Record on the subject of finance. Speeches lasting six or eight hours were made by different members of the senate, and yet they seemed anxious to say more. When the monetary commission stacked up hundreds of volumes on the currency question at an expense of about a million dollars it seemed as if the subject had been exhausted, but that information has apparently been useless, for it is seldom mentioned in the debates.
